

1. "Management is concerned with ideas, things and people" Comment.
2. How would you argue that management is important for all organisations?
3. What are the skills and skill mixtures which managers at different levels need to possess?
4. "Management is the co-ordination of all resources through the process of planning, organising, staffing, directing and controlling, in order to attain stated objectives". Comment on this statement and describe briefly the functions of management.
5. Critically examine Henry Mintzberg's Managerial Roles approach to present day management.
6. "A manager plans, organises, staffs, directs and controls." Discuss.
7. "Definition of management is the art of getting things done through other people."