

Journal Title

Journal of Natural Resources and Environmental Studies

Online ISSN: Applied for

Frequency: Bi-Annual

ABOUT THE JOURNAL

Journal of Natural Resources and Environmental Studies is an international and interdisciplinary journal which deals with economic, social, political, physical and planning aspects of natural resources and environment in urban and rural areas. It provides a platform for the exchange of information and ideas from a range of disciplines and which must be combined to formulate effective policies for the future sustainability of earth. The journal examines issues related to development, conservation, management and sustainability of natural resources along with environmental planning and climate change through research articles and shorter viewpoint pieces. Journal of Natural Resources and Environmental Studies aims to provide policy guidance to governments and planners and it is also a valuable teaching materials.